LUCRETIA MOTT AWARD PRESENTED BY:

Carly Nájera

Member of the Women's Leadership Group for Philadelphia Women's Pro Soccer, Kensington Soccer Club Board Member, Girls Empowerment Co-founder, and 2010 Girls Travel Coach

Dedicated to fostering an inclusive environment, Carly Nájera is an art educator committed to equity and justice. Nájera's dedication extends beyond the classroom; she serves as a youth soccer coach, Board Member, and co-founder of the Girl's Empowerment Group at Kensington Soccer Club. KSC's mission and values align with her own: community advancement through soccer. Nájera inspires positive change both on and off the field through her advocacy work using sports and art as a tool for personal growth and empowerment, fostering confidence and leadership skills in each child she mentors throughout Philadelphia and Bucks County.

Renee Washington

Analyst with PHL Y Sports and ESPN, Hall of Fame Soccer Player

Renee Washington is a sports reporter and analyst who works with PHL Y Sports hosting daily shows for the Philadelphia Union and Phillies. She is an analyst with MSG Networks and CBS Sports covering the NWSL. She also works as a college reporter with ESPN as a sideline reporter and analyst. The Ewing, NJ native, and Pennington Prep standout grad has covered all sports collegiately or professionally through work with the NBA, MLB, WNBA, NFL, NLL, MLS, and NWSL.

In her soccer playing career, Renee is a former three-time all-American and soccer hall of famer from La Salle University. She had an opportunity to play with Sky Blue FC (now Gotham FC) before becoming a coach at Lehigh University and sports reporter.
