

IRAF Report October 2019

BASIC DESCRIPTION

After the 2016 presidential election, an unforeseen series of actions and policies by our government took place that undermined the health and safety of women and girls throughout our region, state, and country. WOMEN'S WAY rapidly responded by launching the Immediate Response Action Fund (IRAF) on June 22, 2017. This nimble and agile grantmaking program is designed to quickly address unanticipated and urgent needs of women and girls in the greater Philadelphia region.

KEYWORDS & MESSAGING

- IRAF addresses urgent and unanticipated needs of organizations or programs that primarily serve women and girls
- From receiving a completed application to communicating a decision – the IRAF grant review process is completed in 10 business days

KEY TAKEAWAYS

- Rapid response funding is critical to prevent disruption of essential, life-saving services for women and children,
- Agile and rapid funding is essential to address unanticipated and sudden increases in demand of services for subpopulations of women and girls
- Economic self-sufficiency is the most frequent area of need and most funded pillar
- The most common unanticipated need is for operational expenses: capital improvements, moving expenses, temporary relocation
- Funding unexpected operational expenses helped build the sustainability of grantees by strengthening their capacity to provide ongoing services, improve quality of services, expand services, engage more volunteers, and leverage additional funding
- Of low income populations served, the highest demand for funding came from incarcerated / re-entering women

“We are deeply grateful for the support of the WOMEN'S WAY Immediate Response Action Fund, which will enable us to continue to offer peer support services to women who are currently residing at Riverside Correctional Facility (RCF). Bridges to Home will also be able to provide necessities like clothing and furniture to women who are exiting RCF and working to rebuild their lives. The speed with which we were able to go through the IRAF process is stunning, and your understanding of how important it was for us to close the gap created by an unexpected funding shortfall enabled us to continue to be a stabilizing presence for women who are justice involved.”

- Catherine Sui, Development Director, Mental Health Partnerships
