

RAPID RESPONSE GENERAL OPERATING FUND REPORT

BASIC DESCRIPTION

In response to COVID-19, WOMEN'S WAY created the Rapid Response General Operating Fund to provide 2-year grants of up to $20,000 per year to organizations serving communities disproportionately impacted by the pandemic, such as low-income / low wage workers, formerly incarcerated, immigrants and refugees, and people experiencing intimate partner violence. The first year of funding is to address the organization's immediate needs in light of the COVID-19 crisis, the second year of funding is to recover to economic stability.

KEYWORDS & MESSAGING

- From receiving a completed application to communicating a decision – the Rapid Response General Operating Fund grant review process is completed in 10 business days or less
- Funding priority is given to organizations that:
 - Are led by women of color
 - Have budgets of less than $500,000
- Most COVID-19 funds are only providing 1-year grants

KEY TAKEAWAYS

- General operating funding is critical in times of crisis for organizations to have the flexibility to fund what is needed for them to remain operational and serving their communities
- Economic self-sufficiency is by far the most funded pillar
- The most common need in response to COVID-19 is increase in demand for services
- Just 0.6% of foundation giving goes to organizations led by women of color. Out of the 12 organizations that WOMEN'S WAY funded, 10 of were led by women of color and 8 had budgets under $500,000

CLIENT QUOTE

"I am so happy that KITHS is able to remain open. I would not know where to go for help with questions about medical insurance or social security benefits. KITHS has helped me understand more about resources that are available for me and my family; resources, I knew nothing about, especially during this pandemic. KITHS provided me information about COVID-19, the stimulus refund, and rent/utility assistance. This award will help KITHS continue to help people like me"
